

inewssource.org

Managing Editor

inewssource is a nonprofit newsroom in San Diego with an ambitious growth plan to engage and serve the diverse communities in California's second most populous county with its investigative and accountability journalism. We are looking for a Managing Editor who will lead the reporting team, help craft editorial strategy and take this newsroom into the future.

At its core, this role is about leadership and about overseeing the production of journalism that is regarded as the most valuable and trustworthy in the region. As a senior leader in the newsroom, you share our visceral belief that credible, fact-based journalism is as necessary to local democracy as food and water are to human survival.

The nationally award-winning journalism of inewssource has changed laws and bettered lives over the past 11 years, and we are looking for an editor who will inspire this team of talented reporters to strive for even more positive impact. Most important is a drive to see that our work addresses the complexity of our communities and issues of inequity. Bring your life experience to this role.

The managing editor will be a leader but also a team member. You will advocate for listening to the community and encourage stories that reflect the diverse perspectives and experiences of the region. This editor must have the desire and the skill to help reporters build audience engagement around compelling public service journalism.

We believe in 360-degree support. That means staff members have the support of their supervisors and their peers. We are hoping you will push us to consider new ways of producing journalism and reaching audiences that we haven't yet engaged.

How this will work

The managing editor reports directly to the CEO/Editor, who founded inewssource 11 years ago, but this role is more of a partnership. We are steadfast in our mission and vision, but open to new ways to achieve it. As managing editor, you are responsible for making sure work gets done and the organization is running smoothly, but also for developing strategies to make sure our work is connecting with communities and is having the greatest impact.

Most immediately, you will work with another editor, and together you will oversee the work of seven reporters, including a data journalist. You will work closely with our photographer/videographer and our digital content manager. You will actively recruit and hire new members of the news team, including interns and fellows, such as our Report for America corps member. You will be an important voice in collaborating with those on the revenue side of the organization who are focused on building audience and brand, as well as marketing.

Over the next two years, we plan to hire at least two more reporters, more interns and a third editor. You will oversee this growth.

Who we're looking for

This editor must be a strong coach, collaborator and communicator. S/he/they/ze will have a demonstrated commitment to fairness and accuracy, in fact and in tone, and a strong grounding in journalism ethics.

We are looking for an editor with an established track record of helping reporters identify rich investigative targets and of wrestling information from often uncooperative sources and public officials. We need an editor who sees the big picture and is able to guide a reporter to tell a story that readers simply cannot put down.

We want experience but we are not setting any hard-and-fast minimum. We value someone who is a self-starter; collaborative and willing to share expertise with colleagues; well-versed in investigative tools of the trade; open to incorporating data and visual storytelling into projects; and obsessive about accuracy.

You might not have headed a newsroom before, but if you have vision, proven editing chops and a demonstrated ability to guide reporters to the most impactful stories, let us hear from you. inewssource is a growing team and you'll have help. We don't believe in throwing you into the deep end with the hope you can swim.

We are serious about further diversifying inewssource, and every member of the organization is involved in making sure our workplace is inclusive and welcoming. Our employee DEI committees are committed and active. San Diego is a richly diverse place and we are committed to listening ... and then acting. Equity is a focus of our reporting. If you have lived experience working and reporting with diverse communities, we would love to hear from you.

Who we are inewssource is a small but mighty newsroom that has spent the last 11 years dedicated to holding public leaders accountable, watching out for taxpayer money, provoking a search for solutions to governmental and societal problems, and strengthening democracy in our region. All of our content is published on the web, sometimes in print, and always aired on radio and TV through our partnerships with KPBS and CBS 8.

inewssource is a member of the Trust Project, an international consortium of news organizations dedicated to transparency and helping the public find trustworthy news. Check out our standards and policies.

Right now, we are a team of 15 people, including full- and part-time reporters, editors, an intern and a handful of people on the business side. We have plans to grow in the next couple of years thanks to a major national validation of our work and a large investment in our long-term sustainability from the American Journalism Project, a new venture philanthropy group committed to saving civic news. This funding will be used to build a robust revenue team that will, in turn, be responsible for maintaining and growing the newsroom.

The nitty gritty

Core Competencies

- Experience reporting on and/or leading investigative and accountability journalism.
- Unwavering commitment to accurate, ethical journalism.
- Strong line editing skills and excellent news judgment.
- An interest in telling stories using a variety of media, and an enthusiasm for learning new skills and technologies.
- Committed to driving integration of diversity, equity and inclusion in the newsroom
- Strong interpersonal skills, including empathy and the ability to take and give constructive feedback.
- Comfort with a job that will be demanding, evolving.

Requirements

- Track record of editing and/or reporting stories with impact.
- A demonstrated ability to “see the story” that is going to matter to readers and to anticipate reader interests before they exist.
- Experience managing projects.
- Ability to articulate and reinforce standards for ethics and professional conduct as well as journalistic excellence.
- The proven ability to lead, inspire and convey knowledge to others, and to work effectively with a wide range of colleagues.
- An interest in/aptitude for storytelling using a broad range of media, including the written word, video, photography, podcasts and other audio, and whatever comes next.
- The ability to solve problems, innovate and adapt.
- Ability to synthesize documents and data to uncover news stories.
- Ability to uncover and petition for the release of documents and help reporters navigate open records laws.
- Impeccable knowledge of grammar, spelling and AP Style.
- Strong organizational and time management skills; reliably meet deadlines.

What we'll give you

We will pay a salary that is competitive and commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental and vision insurance, 401K, vacation, holidays and more. Our goal is to serve our community and meet our mission everyday, and that means helping you do your best work in a place that makes you feel welcome and valued.

Location: San Diego, CA (You will be working remotely for the foreseeable future.)

Start Date: Flexible.

Starting Salary: $90,000-$110,000 DOE

TO APPLY: Please submit an application through this link. If you have questions, please contact jobs@inewssource.org.

inewssource is committed to the principle of equal employment opportunity for all employees and to providing employees with a work environment free of discrimination and harassment. All employment decisions at inewssource are based on business needs, job requirements and individual qualifications, without regard to race, color, age, religion or belief, family or parental status, or any other status protected by the laws or regulations in California. inewssource will not tolerate discrimination or harassment based on any of these characteristics.